

Immerse Your Students in History at the Old Treasury Building

Drawing on key onsite exhibitions, students will consider various factors that influenced European attitudes to First Nations people by examining primary and secondary documents. They will reflect on the Gold Rush population increase, and how various members of the community were treated at the time.

The Old Treasury Building is a unique resource for students and teachers. A magnificent gold rush building, it reflects the growth of 'Marvellous Melbourne' and changing life in the city. In addition to our excellent and informative tours, the Old Treasury Building's website hosts a wide variety of well researched online exhibitions including 'A Nation Divided: The Great War and Conscription' and 'Women Work for Victory in WWII'.

Tours cost $10 per student, the minimum number of students in a session is 10; the maximum is 50. Tours are allocated in one hour blocks. Price correct until 31 December 2024.
